KPMG named Best Fund Audit Firm

Audit and professional services firm KPMG have been voted the best auditor of funds across the world's fund domiciles, including the Cayman Islands.

KPMG was awarded the title by International Fund Investment (IFI). IFI is an asset management think tank and research centre with a particular focus on offshore jurisdictions. Its annual Fund Domicile Service Provider Awards acknowledge service providers that stand out over the course of the year, with the winners being selected through a mix of industry votes, client feedback and an external panel of independent judges who assessed the firms across the international jurisdictions.

Anthony Cowell, partner at KPMG in the Cayman Islands acknowledged this achievement, "We are very proud to have been recognized by IFI as leaders in our field. This award represents the breadth and depth of our expertise across global fund centers. It is especially important to us as it incorporates client feedback into the selection process. This, plus our recent success at the Cayman Island's Top Employer Awards, reflects our commitment to excellence."
