Infrastructure Summit: An Island Perspective of a Global Challenge

From airport and port redevelopment to waste management and utility resources, infrastructure is one of the great global challenges of the 21st century. Throughout the world, infrastructure is critical to underpin economic development, stimulate jobs and increase competitiveness in a background of falling Government revenues and increasing costs. All of this is driving a search for alternative funding sources and better ways to deliver essential large capital projects.

KPMG invites you to the first of its kind Island Infrastructure Summit to share challenges, success stories and opportunities unique to smaller island economies, bringing together Leaders of Government, Ministers, Developers and Financiers.

Confirmed speakers include:

- Hon. McKeever Bush, OBE, J.P., Premier of the Cayman Islands
- Hon. Paula A. Cox, J.P., M.P., Premier of Bermuda
- Hon. Zhivargo Laing, M.P., Minister of State for Finance of The Bahamas

Join us on September 22 – 23, 2011 in Miami, Florida.

Attendance is by invitation only and further details will be provided. If you have any queries in the meantime, please contact:
